JL: I've started to read Skeptci on assassinations, beginning with about a page of poor sick Bud. I'M amused at his 180° shift, taking the position over which he has come to hate me and for all the world as though it had always been his. I'm not amused at his new violation of his client's rights. I'm the client. I've marked this with a double red line. Howard and Lil have indicated the rest of the issue will not please me. But I was aware of this from you. It doesnot tempt me to lay other things aside for it. I'll read it as I do other things. What I've seen was while lunching. My purpose is to let you know that Bud has used material he gpt from me only for litigation, material to which nobody else tumbled, and he does represent it as his own work by not saying anything else about it. There may come a time when I'll do something about these things. I don't plan to now...The table of contents is enough of an indication of the issue. ...After all, isn't Popkin of The Popkin Papers an expert on skepticism? HW 9/11/75
